

AUSTRALASIAN COLLEGE OF ROAD SAFETY

Capacity Building Program: Member Engagement

As the peak industry body for road safety, the ACRS is committed to undertaking the challenge of developing a digital road safety Body of Knowledge (RS BoK) and transdisciplinary online learning program. We're calling on all members of the ACRS to take part in this landmark program by joining one of the following groups to contribute. All engagement with this project is on a voluntary basis and some specialist panel (BoK chapter and learning program authors) contributors will be named.

You may express interest as an individual or as a representative of an organisation to contribute to this project.

Specialist Panel

Our Specialist Panel will comprise experienced, senior road safety professionals and practitioners sharing their experience to build an industry repository of knowledge and learning.

User Experience Research

Hearing from a products future users is the best way to understand their needs. Share your input to inform how we design and develop the format and features of our BoK and online learning program.

Product Testing

As we begin to prototype our digital BoK and online learning program, we'll be asking ACRS members to jump in and test various aspects of the program.
